

Dr Nicole Brown

Social Research & Practice and Education Ltd.

Dear Nicole,

I hope this email finds you all well. We have had another busy two weeks in and for our network. Together with different members of our network, I am currently working on several projects for the next phase. We are developing plans for a symposium, for grant bids, and for publications. We are also lining up our guest speakers for next year's seminar series, which we will theme around ethics and ethical considerations in Practice As Research contexts. If you are interested in participating and/or contributing, please, email Nicole Brown.

In terms of news, I would like to highlight the exhibition work from the Play Observatory project, which you can view online. In case you have missed them, there are several "In Conversation" recordings exploring the breadth of practice as research as it is represented in this network.

On 4 May 2022 at 2pm British Summer Time Dr Monica Sassatelli, Associate Professor at the University of Bologna, Italy, will be presenting her talk Drawing Research, in which she will focus on affordances of narrative drawing in the context of research and when researching participants' experiences. Please, have some pens and paper ready, as we will also be drawing and doodling.
